

Deborah Lamb

As a Washingtonian, we are not ready for EV. We're going through Recession. Jobs are not paying enough for all to get a new EV. Much less take care of them. Buy new EV battery or other essentials to keep maintained.

It also doesn't charge properly charge in cold weather. Infrastructure is not there.

I'm one who is unable to sit in my car in the middle of subzero weather and wait for a charge. What do you expect us to do.

I say no on the EV deal. There's a lot of us not ready and won't be. The Middle Class, The new Poor Class. That you the Legislatures have put us in. (Retail workers, office receptionist and some mail room supports, hospitality workers, gig workers) the ones who live paycheck to paycheck. Rents doubled in 2 years. Now Food and gas is priced beyond our reach. Yeah!

No EV legislation until you take care of the above mentioned items. Help our supply chain. Lower our food and gas. Stabilize our rents and utilities. And make Medical more affordable. Companies not charging over $100/pay period for Medical benefits.

Take care of these things first.

No Green EV Legislation right now!

Get everything ready first.

No EV Legislation.