

Howard Hadley

Tell California to go away. We don't want their idiotic rules here, nor are they needed.

There are no ZEV (Zero Emission Vehicles) made today. Each battery requires 7500 tons of earth to be mined, much of that by slave labor or child labor for the cobalt being mined. There is no safe recycling of lithium batteries. The only country benefiting from this is China.

Zero Emission Vehicles are only around because by unwilling taxpayers are "helping" the payments of those people that can afford to buy them.

Make them prove their reliability and effectiveness in the open marketplace.