You people who will be making these decisions for the people of Washington, you should put yourselves in our shoes. We are struggling to pay our bills, buy groceries, medical care just to name a few items. How do you think the every day person is going to be able to afford to buy and maintain an electric vehicle. Making people go to EV's is the most ridiculous idea that anyone has come up with. When these vehicles stop running, catch on fire who is going to pay for all of these charges? You won't but the taxpayer will be paying for them for years. You need to stop and think about what the taxpayer wants and forget about California doing this, Newsome will not be in office that much longer. Hopefully Inslee will not be either.
