

Douglas Brierley

This is an extremely bad bill. I understand that we need to move to a more environmentally friendly state but this bill will hurt millions of people. There is no plan from the state to gradually move people. Instead you follow California blindly with no regard for the average Washingtonian. You have no plan to even have the infrastructure ready. Get real wind and solar won't do it. You already have the most environmental infrastructure with our dams.

How about if you come up with a real plan and people might be ready for it.

At an average price of $66K for an EV normal people can't afford it.