I'm trying to figure what you're thinking. Our electric grid can barely keep up with our needs now. I can't imagine what it will be like if everyone is trying to charge their cars. Are you going to be like Newsom and tell people they can't charge their cars? What about people who can't afford to buy electric cars? Are they supposed to walk? What about people who are still driving gas powered cars? The price of gas will skyrocket so they won't be able to drive. Have you thought about what you're going to do with all the batteries when they wear out? We're already running out of space to bury nuclear waste and these batteries have to be buried along with the carbon fiber the windmills and solar panels. With all the issues facing converting to electric vehicles you need to rethink the issue. PLEASE DON'T DO SUCH A FOOLISH THING!
