

Steve Moller

You cant mandate technology, especially technology that most citizens cant afford. The current electrical grid is not remotely ready, now or in the foreseeable future, to handle the requirement to provide supply for EV vehicles. This decision would ignore the distasteful environmental impact of Lithium mining worldwide. Please reconsider this decision. It will have a negative effect on every aspect of Washington's economy and drive more individuals into homelessness.