

Abby Bacon

Washington state SHOULD NOT adopt the California Clean Vehicle Program. The infrastructure is not established to support this program. The average electric vehicle is more expensive than the average wages in the state can afford. The power grid cannot support every person in the state to have at least one electric vehicle and be able to charge of when necessary without having rolling blackouts and additional energy problems. I work in the auto repair industry at a new car dealership. The new electric vehicles have been very unreliable, expensive to repair, parts are often unavailable and on backorder and need tires replaced as early as 9000 miles at an average of $1600 a set. The public has been kept in the dark by Governor Newsome and Governor Inslee to further their unrealistic agenda and program. Please do not support this program. It will be detrimental to the future of Washington state.