

James York

Please stop the stupidity. Banning gas vehicles is probably the most stupid idea you could come up with. First there is no infrastructure to support wholesale conversion. Look at California, a perfect example of short sighted politicians like yourselves trying to push an agenda of climate change that just isn't there.