No! I do not like your new rules by 2035 for Zero Emission Vehicle standards by 2035. Sure, it might suit all the city people, but the country and rural areas are only gonna be hurt.

You think things cost lots more, just wait until you request us folks to have expensive electric cars and trucks to get around and try to have enough charging stations. How far are we gonna get! To repair or replace a battery will be way too expensive!

No we are not all embracing your all electric vehicle idea! Just because you shove this way of thinking down our throats, we don't all agree with your ideas and way of thinking.

We all can't live in your big cities and who would want to. I know my letter won't change your minds, but you've got to consider us country, rural and farmers and loggers and how far we have to travel to do things and how long its gonna take to travel anywhere.

No, no, on your 2030 or 2035 all electric (zero emissions) proposal! Don't have to follow California! Where's all the electricity coming from when you also want to do away with dams!
