

Charles Cowman

This proposed rule is beyond idiotic at this day and time. The technology for an all electric transportation system does not exist. It may be somewhat functional in high density areas such as downtown Seattle but not even close to functional in the rest of the state.

This move is purely a political move by Gavin newsom and his twin jay inslee. The science is not ready. Do not push this through.