

Amanda Lowman

Washington state needs to allow people to make their own decision on whether or not to buy an electric vehicle. If EV cars make sense economically and are durable and reliable, people will buy them. The government shouldn't be allowed to tell people what they can or cannot buy.