

D Prince

I am against this rule. Look at CA that already is asking people not to charge their electric cars because the system can't handle it. We are not ready for this and need lots more time. It is also not environmentally friendly since you are not able to do anything with the batteries when they wear out.

They are still too expensive, not able to drive far, have to find places to recharge.