

Anonymous Anonymous

Absolutely not! This is not an effort to save the environment, this is to fill the pocket books of the rich. The batteries are far more dangerous for our environment than a gas/fuel vehicle. Look at California black outs, the electricity can't handle it.