

David Church

In my opinion, to start putting these changes in place before our infrastructure is ready is a huge mistake. There will be equal resistance to this. Why not improving our electrical grid by adding surcharge to new electric vehicles. That way the people that are totally committed to EV can offset some of the costs. Unfair to continue to tax fossil fuels and try to eliminate them at the same time.