

Jason Nasby

Law makers need to research LP vehicles and stop pushing an agenda for the electrification movement, we do not have an infrastructure to support it! Electricity is far from green! It is my understanding that we do not have the resources available to build such an infrastructure. We do have the resources for LP and it would have less of an economical impact on citizens/businesses to utilize LP. It appears the problem is law makers/big corporations put their $investments in electricity and they do not want to lose that capital. How can we find a better solution?