

Steve Bell

The proposed Clean vehicle program regulations are extremely unrealistic, and will not help Washington residents or the local ecology. The energy grid is not capable of supporting the additional electric vehicles. Most households will be forced to hold on to older vehicles, rather than replacing them with newer, more efficient (non electric) alternatives