

Tenney Singer

Mandating electric vehicles without the giant and reliable infrastructure to support them is plainly absurd. We have plenty of God-given oil to run our massive society: not only cars, but industrial machinery, diesel trucks and trains, farm equipment, boats, and many more areas of need. Mandates from the government are tyrannical and unconstitutional. No on this mandate.