Your following California's lead on electric only after 2035 is not attainable. You will not have the infrastructure to support the numbers. You are living in lolly land thinking it will, or you'll tax us to death! These are not green cars. Look at the destruction of the earth to get the metals to manufacture the batteries. China will poison the world for you to do this. Is not energy free, it prepaid energy! Then, if you do get your way, you can control us, which I think is your end game, by allowing when we can charge on the overtaxed infrastructure electrical system.
