

Matt Hamilton

I read over most of the comments & it looks like 10 oppose for every supporter. Most of the supporters used the same form letter. The people against it spoke from the heart about price of EVs, electrical capacity to charge EVs, the mandate of having to buy an electrical car, following California policies, Rural communities not having the infrastructure in place, Salt water fires in Florida, Range for a trip to camp in the mountains, 300 mile range, mining pollution, where apartment renters would charge, let the market decide. Don't forget about our gas refining business, they can't mine for batteries. Bad idea overall. The timeline is too fast for reality. If you like California so much, MOVE!
