

Morgan Alexander

While testing the air quality for pollution is helpful, what would be more helpful to Tacoma residents is to also test for putrid and noxious industrial odors. Tacoma's Eastside receives an unequal amount of rotting animal carcass and burning metal/plastic aromas due to prevailing winds and our location of being uphill from industrially zoned areas. Throughout the year the odors are so bad that they cause one to wretch. In the summer we have to keep our windows closed just to keep out the offensive smells. Please help change this!