

Julie Stone

I support the proposed grant program for communities overburdened by air pollution in Washington. People in overburdened communities deserve clean air. As an asthma sufferer, access to strategies to mitigate harm from and reduce pollution are essential for my health. Children in the identified communities need preventative measures so that they do not suffer from the health impacts of poor air quality.