

Don Steinke

Plastic, paper, woody debris, and food waste are forms of sequestered carbon.

We should keep carbon sequestered as long as nature allows.

Bury plastic and allow organic matter to decompose aerobically.