

Tim Henry

I believe that data centers in general have come a long ways in how they are built and operated. They are becoming less of an environmental impact and are ran much more efficiently. The diesel generators are for emergency power only and will be cycled periodically. Very rarely around here especially will they very need to run them for long periods of time. In my eyes the building of this Sabey data center will not do much harm at all to our local areas environment. But will in fact keep this areas infrastructure strong

I approve of the building of the next Sabey data center here in east wenatchee. It will be a great asset to this area we call our home