

Grace Thompson

We demand a public hearing, the people oppose the theft of limited resources for a data center. These data centers are not for public benefit, they do not provide value to the community, and only fuel the climate crisis currently threatening our people, land, and wildlife. If there is a disagreement, then it should be aired at an in-person hearing and voted on by the residents who are impacted. These centers are a danger to the environment, the agriculture, and the people themselves, and the only ones pushing for them to be built stand to gain financially. Their motives are greed, not progress. These data centers will not guarantee stable, well-paying jobs for any length of time and any promises they make are empty and unenforceable when the AI bubble pops and regulation catches up.