

Brett Schmitt

I have been building these local data centers for more than 20 years. The permits should be approved. The generators never turn on because they rarely lose power. There is no noise that anyone can hear unless you are on their property. These data centers contribute in so many ways to the local economy. Not just through taxes but good paying jobs.