I know very little about PFAS but I support anything and everything we can do to have clean drinking water and protect the health of our environment and people. It is beyond my thinking why we use and sell harmful products (e.g. why are stores allowed to continue to sell Roundup). We continue to use these items and then wonder why so many people have cancer, Alzheimers, heart disease, etc. We are smarter than this. Personally, over the past year I have added a filter on my drinking water and on my shower and purchased two air purifiers because I don't trust that we are doing what we should be to keep things safe.
