

WA Physicians for Social Responsibility

We feel that this rule should help us determine--is this project part of a low carbon future? And that for sound evaluation, we need to align these rules with our emission reduction targets and that every environmental analysis for major fossil fuel projects should include a detailed climate test...Environmental analyses must compare the proposal to other technologies, both existing and those that are emerging, that would achieve the same purpose.