I'd like to see, see these rules, encourage development of sustainable projects. I think there's a lot of new technology coming down the road that can replace fossil fuels and provide good jobs at the same time and instead we're pursuing fossil fuels and not looking at the future. Washington is a technological state that has always benefited from being ahead of the curve technologically. So I'd like to see these rules encourage things like hydrogen use, more electrification, wind, solar, that sort of thing.
