

Holly Taylor

I support the state's efforts to move forward with geothermal energy development outlined in this draft document, as long as it is done in consultation with tribal nations. So much of our energy policy and development seems to be at the expense of tribal cultural and natural resources, and I think it is important to strengthen safeguards around treaty rights and consultation processes.