Maureen Moriarty

Please do not allow any further deterioration, degradation or ruin of what limited shoreline areas are left. We can't get it back after it's gone! Shoreline birds have been hugely impacted by a lack of protections for their limited habitat that is critical for them to nest. They are currently one of the most impacted bird species from both climate change in conjunction with a lack of habitat and shoreline protection. Birding is increasingly popular- people care about protecting them! They are wonderful antidotes to the our increasingly chaotic world. Please do the right thing by them before it's too late