I am apposed to the BESS energy storage facilities in Thurston county areas. This is a potential hazard to the environment and has not proven to have any control methods that are long term and fully controlable to the opinion of many residents. As a resident of Tenino, we have faced one facility in Grand Mound that was discontinued and the current proposed facility is in Bucoda. We have a small one in Tenino. Major salmon baring rivers and elk herds are at one location as are schools, homes, bus barns, farms in the others. I do not believe the energy stored by the batteries will ever give our small communities any boost to our energy grid. There is plenty of open spaces away from our precious towns that we so cherish. Thank you
