Dennis Monicatti

These storage systems need to be located in remote areas even if these locations result in additional transmission costs. NOT near schools, parks, or housing developments.