

Diane Bevins

This movement is wrong and blind sighting. Having such a storage facility without first allowing proper knowledge to the homeowners in the area is wrong. The city and county governments allow for continued growth, but yet the power grid is not secure. It seems these battery "farms" are the answer but they could be the destruction as well. How about stopping growth for a while. How about not endangering the public. And let's try to focus on what we have at this time and make it work properly!