Peggy Shepard

What about all responders, ie police and ecology needing self-contained breathing apparatus (SCBA) in order to operate during a BESS catastrophic failure? Should residents be prepared with self-contained breathing apparatus (SCBA).

During the MOSS Landing meeting with county council in 2025, most residents were not notified to either evacuate or shelter in place. There was no air monitoring for HF. One child was taken to a doctor to see about a rash, the doctor could not help her without knowing what the child had been in contact with. The county council member kept telling residents to see their doctor if they have symptoms, but the doctors can't do anything not knowing what the patient has been in contact with. The residents were told not to worry about the smoke when in fact the smoke contained HF. How can all residents be made aware of an evacuation or shelter in place. Some residents had livestock - what happens to the livestock? What happens to the farms that surround MOSS Landing? What about the contamination of the food? Do we need raid sirens to notify everyone? What about alerts on cell phones - for everyone.

None of the cost for the BESS should be burdened by the residents, 100% paid for by the companies that are causing the push for more BESS.

Who is going to pay for the devaluation of homes?