

Kate Smith

Food waste prevention is of utmost importance to our communities and climate. This plan has engaged important stakeholders across the state and I support this program. I find it especially important that farmers of all sizes are connected with communities to distribute food and are paid a fair price for their fresh produce.