

kraig Schwartz

In particular, as a city dweller I need to know that the food I eat is free from any and all harmful substances. Sewer sludge is a harmful substance, and the science to this date regarding sludge is underdeveloped and inconclusive. Until it can be determined that sludge has no contaminants whatsoever, it should not be used. Moreover, corporate pressure to proceed without further testing is not acceptable.