

Eleanor Mattice

Even though contaminants might be at low levels they might bioaccumulate. Have we studied the long-term impact on soil health and transference of contaminants to crops? Humans and wildlife are exposed to so many chemicals we certainly don't need anymore exposure. I urge extreme caution about using biosolid waste on our croplands.