

JEF GALLACCI

In reading through the ordinances, it appears clear the language is designed to dissuade the disposition of organic material into landfills. Perhaps an addition to the language could be made to persuade or encourage, in a positive way, the collection of said organic materials, and provide enticements for the collection, handling and processing of the wastes. Perhaps even financial incentives to the handlers, paid for via the collection of penalty fees for the improper disposals.