

Lora Rathbone

To get more people to recycle batteries, a program would be more successful if it allowed people to bring in more than one type of item to be recycled. For example, returning batteries with all electronics that can be recycled. Or accepted at hazardous waste collection sites, along with the damaged batteries.

I am glad to hear about the Extended Producer Responsibility approach to recycling. WA state should have it's own facility, not ship to other states.