

Barbara Seaman

Thank you for making this study. It's important. I support the idea of deposits on beverage containers, and believe that in order for it to be effective, the system needs to make it as convenient, routine and intuitive for consumers as possible. I like the idea of having the deposits redeemed at the retail sites where people buy the products.