

Jason Rock

Cleaning up this site is obviously the right thing to do and I support the determination of non-significance for SEPA. I would argue that in fact not only is this cleanup not likely to harm the environment, but it's likely to reduce the potential for future environmental harm were mitigation not to be undertaken.