

Ronald Eber

Please require full and complete "clean-up" of the Unocal land. Clean means clean and not leaving any residue of contamination for future owners or generations. Chevron made the mess and they need to clean it up. The citizens and City of Edmonds have a longstanding goal to restore the Edmonds Marsh to a fully functional estuary suitable for salmon habitat and restoration. It's MOU with WSDOT, Resolution 1508 and the PROS plan all call for restoration and expansion through the Unocal land. Alternative # 6 is the right choice. The land is not suitable for residential, commercial or industrial use given the currently known critical areas, shoreland management areas, seismic hazards and expected sea level rise. Just say no to anything less than a full clean-up. Many have submitted specific comments about the land and inadequacies of the current DEIS and I support more inventories for updated soil samples and evaluations of costs and levels of contamination. What is cheap or cost effective for Chevron does not matter. It is the cost to the future that matters. Do not let Chevron pass the buck onto the future.