

Linda Wilson

I'll make this short and to the point.

Chevron created the mess and is morally and should be legally responsible for the clean up. They should not be able to do a partial clean up endangering people and animals.