

Kate Scott

After the debacle of their Atlantic Fish Farming project, how can we trust Cooke Aquaculture to protect our environment?

We must work instead to create conditions for the return of natural, native fish species here.

Do we really need this artificially raised fish for food?

Is it worth the risk? No!