

Douglas Dixon II

I believe that there is enough sound science to support Cooke Aquaculture's decision to raise sterile steelhead within their infrastructure. Aquaculture is a proven method of producing much needed seafood for our growing population's demand.

This opportunity also makes sense from an economic standpoint by providing local jobs and potential to bring in revenue from foreign trade.

I strongly support Cooke's transition to raising sterile steelhead in Puget Sound.

Douglas Dixon II