

Frances Rice

It is a safer option to raise fish in tanks on land as opposed to in the Puget Sound. The chances of escape are thus eliminated. Systems such as farming in combination with fish rearing benefit from using fish wastes as fertilizer, as opposed to large quantities of fish waste entering the sound and polluting it. Please do not renew or extend Cooke Aquaculture Pacific's leases to raise fish in the Puget Sound.