

Bonnie Bledsoe

We should concentrate on protecting our native populations of fish and not keep creating artificial fisheries around the Sound. Lets support salmon coming back—and the orcas having food, the population enjoying one of nature's most healthy dishes, and helping the Native American cultures where salmon was central. I am concerned about concentrated areas of fish with disease being created and fish escaping.