

Kent Hoium

Raising Steelhead in Washington State waters will provide employment, tax revenue and a clean, renewable source of food in our state.

Because Steelhead are native to Washington and the fish to be raised are sterile, there is no possibility of a non-native run being established.

Washington needs this kind of business to strengthen our economy.

I support this permit modification request.

Thank you for taking time to read my comments.