

Tom Glaspie

I support the decision to have Cooke transition to raising all-female triploid Steelhead in their Washington marine net pens. The Puget Sound is the perfect place to raise these fish! Steelhead are a native fish to Washington State, and are currently being raised in other parts of Washington. This is an excellent opportunity for Washington to raise a healthy protein locally. The US currently is importing over 90% of the seafood that is consumed. Over the past few months I have seen how important it is to be able to feed our communities and not rely on importing our food from other countries.

Please approve this transition.

I support Cooke,

Thank you,

Tom Glaspie