

Lisa McClary

I am a Washington native living temporarily in Oregon. I am horrified at Cooke Aquaculture's flagrant attempts to get around and violate its water quality permits. Please do not approve Cooke Aquaculture's recent application to modify existing water quality permits, which require authorization under the Clean Water Act before Cooke can expand and extend net pen aquaculture in Puget Sound.

With our dwindling Southern Killer Whale population starving, we cannot accept serious pollution and water quality risks posed by this industry, now or ever, but especially not if fully considered during this permitting process.